

Lianshulu - Caprivi Strip

Lianshulu Lodge, one of the first private lodges built inside a Namibian National Park, is beautifully placed in the Caprivi Strip on the banks of the scenically stunning Kwando River. The Caprivi Strip is a narrow sliver of land which forms a strategic corridor, linking Namibia with Botswana, Angola and Zambia, and is somehow detached from the rest of the country yet steeped in history. The deep Kalahari sands and tropical waterways found here are home to an interesting array of wildlife that differs widely to that of the rest of Namibia. Here, in the heart of the Mudumu National Park, dry mixed woodlands stand in complete contrast to the beautiful Kwando wetland ecosystem.

Lianshulu Lodge accommodates guests in 9 twin rooms and 1 family room, individually styled and tastefully furnished, with en-suite bathroom and secluded veranda. The airy thatched dining, lounge and bar areas open onto spacious, split-level wooden decks, affording sweeping views over the Lianshulu Lagoon. Two fireplaces, scenic outlooks and a secluded swimming pool create idyllic places in which to relax and take in the tranquility of the natural surroundings.

Activities here include morning or sunset boat cruises, nature drives in the Park, and visits to the Lizauli Traditional Village, a model homestead where members of the local community give fascinating insights into their way of life in this remote corner of Namibia.

Many typical savannah species occur in the Mudumu National Park including buffalo, zebra, wildebeest and waterbuck with elephant and hippo being particularly abundant. Predators are sometimes encountered and around 400 bird species have been recorded in the East Caprivi. Hippo, crocodiles and fish such as bream, tigerfish and catfish can be seen from the lodge deck.
