

Le Domaine De Fontenay

Domaine De Fontenay is a country house hotel on the outskirts of Joffreville, a short drive from Montagne d'Ambre National Park. It is one of Madagascar's best hotels. The owners, Marie-Jo and Karl-Heinz, have restored the early 20th century colonial villa and its buildings, and are now working on replanting indigenous trees in areas of secondary forest in Le Fontenay Nature Park. This century-old homestead of a rich French settler has been turned into an exceptional setting for a relaxing stay. Ideally situated in the centre of the Northern region, the Domaine de Fontenay allows guests easy access to all the main tourist spots. The hotel is situated at the foot of the Montagne d'Ambre National Park, within two hours of the famous Tsingy of the Ankarana, within an hour of the beaches of the east coast and an hour from the Bay of Diego-Suarez.

Le Domaine de Fontenay has seven spacious, individual and distinctive double rooms. The family room has a large en suite double room and a second en suite room with bunk beds for children. The suite comprises a large bedroom, a living room and an enormous bathroom. The bathrooms are lavish and one has an ancient marble tub. Rooms are either in the villa or in buildings set in the flowering gardens.
