

Kapani Lodge

Once the home of the legendary Norman Carr, Kapani Lodge offers guests brick and thatch chalets as well as two new lagoon houses. The rooms are spacious and elegantly decorated with superior finishes as well as large walk-in mosquito nets.

Kapani is an exclusive, private camp situated on the banks of one of the many ox-bow lagoons in the South Luangwa. It accommodates just twenty guests and is open throughout the year.

Each of the eight standard suites has its own lounge with bar fridge and the beds have overhead fans inside their walk-in mosquito nets. Our two Lagoon Houses are even more spacious with private views and elegant furniture.

The camp is on mains electricity and offers most modern facilities. A thatched building in the center of the camp houses the lounge and library. It is pleasantly cool in the hot weather and warm and cozy in the cooler months with an open fire. The bar and dining area is set on a deck overlooking the Kapani Lagoon.

According to the season, dining is al fresco with dinner taken on the terrace, on the spacious deck, by the swimming pool or in the lounge. Private dinners can also be arranged for guests seeking a little more seclusion.
